Stamford London Incense Sticks

Hand-dipped | Hand-rolled

At the heart of the traditional Indian incense stick (or agarbatti) is the bamboo reed. Fast-growing, self-regenerating, renewable and highly sustainable, bamboo is well suited to today's increasingly eco-conscious consumers. Stamford London incense sticks are made from natural ingredients based on this central bamboo core, free of artificial colours. They burn cleanly, evenly and gently – steadily releasing soft, aromatic perfume for around half an hour. They are classed as direct-burning, as they don't require a separate heat source.

Why Our Dipped Incense Sticks?

Stamford London's Fair Trade dipped incense sticks are hand-made in India. A bamboo reed is dipped into a natural fragrance oil or essential oil to build up the mixture in layers, then left to dry. The range includes timeless classics such as sandalwood and patchouli, alongside more unusual custom-blends and unique fragrances specifically created for the international market, including Exotic, Mystical and Mythical. As well as individual packs, we also produce beautifully boxed gift and variety sets.

Our dipped sticks are usually supplied in hex (hexagonal) packs made from 100% recyclable paper. Hex is one of the most popular styles of incense packaging on the market, providing a protective and space-efficient method of dispatching delicate sticks, as well as visual appeal and instant consumer recognition. Most of our hex sticks are packed in a dual-display unit, which can be positioned upright or horizontally, depending on the shelf space available.

The Stamford Hand-Rolled Incense Sticks

Stamford London masala incense sticks are a Fair Trade product, hand-made in Karnataka by skilled craftspeople in the centuries-old southern Indian style. A thick dough-like paste ("masala") is created from purely natural extracts – resins, aromatic wood powders, spices, herbs, fine quality oils and honey – and rolled by hand onto the bamboo sticks. This creates a layered coating of incense that produces rich and complex scents, creating the ideal environment for meditation, yoga, prayers and relaxation. Our range includes masala sticks specifically blended for aromatherapy, alongside plant-based florals and vegan collections, plus attractively boxed variety sets of six fragrances on a theme. Our masala sticks are usually packaged in slim rectangular boxes made from 100% recyclable paper.

Clean. Sustainable. All-natural

Our incense sticks are made from natural ingredients based on this central bamboo core, free of artificial colours. They burn cleanly, evenly, and gently – steadily releasing soft, aromatic perfume for around half an hour. They are classed as direct-burning, as they don't require a separate heat source.

Stamford London Cones and Aroma Oils

Incense Cones | Backflow Cones | Aroma Oils

Cones (also known as dhoops) are made from a combustible paste of natural ingredients, pressed into a cone mould then turned out to solidify and dry. Their fragrance becomes more intense throughout the burn time, although always remaining smooth and gentle. Even with a similar blend of ingredients, the scent will differ slightly from stick incense as it isn't being affected by the presence of a bamboo core. Like our incense sticks, our cones are often referred to as direct-burning, as they don't require a separate heat source.

Backflow Incense Cones

Stamford London's Fair Trade dipped incense sticks are hand-made in India. A bamboo reed is dipped into a natural fragrance oil or essential oil to build up the mixture in layers, then left to dry. The range includes timeless classics such as sandalwood and patchouli, alongside more unusual custom-blends and unique fragrances specifically created for the international market, including Exotic, Mystical and Mythical. As well as individual packs, we also produce beautifully boxed gift and variety sets.

Our dipped sticks are usually supplied in hex (hexagonal) packs made from 100% recyclable paper. Hex is one of the most popular styles of incense packaging on the market, providing a protective and space-efficient method of dispatching delicate sticks, as well as visual appeal and instant consumer recognition. Most of our hex sticks are packed in a dual-display unit, which can be positioned upright or horizontally, depending on the shelf space available.

Stamford Aroma Oils

blended from plant-derived ingredients, then diluted in a carrier oil to create an enticing range of naturally evocative scents

Unlike many brands on the market, our premium products contain a high proportion of essential oil to ensure the fragrance lingers, rather than disappearing in minutes. Typically, a few drops are heated in a bowl of water over a traditional oil burner and tea-light candle, allowing the scent to diffuse through the air for a burn time of around 30 minutes. For a slower and more consistent fragrance hit, an electric essential oil diffuser is a gentler alternative. Stamford aroma oils are sold in 10ml bottles, and all the packaging is 100% recyclable.
